COMMENT and RUMOR

The Southern Title real estate barometer for February reports 44 real estate transactions in Ocean Beach in January with 27 in February. February of 1943 showed only 16 sales so there is a definite increase in the demand for homes and business property here.

Ocean Beach Women's club is manning a Red Cross booth in the lobby of Bank of America, Ocean Beach, and receiving quite a tidy sum each day. People wishing to donate to the Red Cross, and who have not yet been contacted by district workers, should make their donations to this worthy cause at once so Ocean Beach will be given credit for a worthwhile sum in this cause which takes relief of many kinds to the combat areas and to our suffering men as well as those of foreign nations.

There has been quite a little comment in Ocean Beach, as well as over the whole city of San Diego, regarding card games in pool halls and in city licensed card rooms. At the suggestion of local readers we have inserted a ballot this week in the News which interested people may fill out and either mail or place in the mail slot of our office at 1922 Bacon street.

We urge our readers to take advantage of the grocery and food items advertised in our local newspaper this week and every week. Buy point free items when you can, using as much fresh fruit and vegetables as possible, which will help the war effort.

Last week on those warm sunny day we were just out to catch the spring fever but then the weather man changed his brand and this week we have done our best to avoid catching cold. Quite a change, from over 80 at noon down to around 50 in the early mornings. Rain and blustry winds Monday night made us feel glad we had a good snug house to keep out old man winter.

Seems our government could very easily do something about the black market in gasoline that we have been hearing officials complain about. Up-to-date all that was said was that it exists in considerable quantity. Why not do something about it.

Do We Want Card Rooms

To learn the sentiment of Ocean Beach people in regard to card rooms or card games in pool halls the Ocean Beach News is asking the opinion of readers.

Just say whether you favor city licensed card rooms or not. You need not sign your name. Cut out and mail or place in mail slot of our office door at 1922 Bacon street.

I favor card rooms in Ocean Beach.

Yes or No .....

Scrap Paper Wanted

The Sea Scouts have taken on the job of getting scrap paper in to the salvage pile but want and are entitled to some help from householders.

Old newspapers and magazines must be tied in bundles and if you have more than 100 pounds they will be called for. If less than 100 pounds please deliver to 1676 Cable st.

Don R. McKenney is leader of the Sea Scouts, his phone number is Bayview 5510, which is the number to call when you have a good stack of old newspapers bundled up. You and your neighbor might join together to get the required amount if necessary.

WAR BONDS will help to back the Wacs, Waves and Spars.

Dr. C. H. Webber Tells Plans As Supervisor

Pledging himself to strict adherence to all provisions of the county charter, and earnest cooperation with city, state and federal officials, and military authorities, Dr. Chester H. Webber, dental surgeon, has issued this statement announcing his candidacy for supervisor, First district:

"The business of county government under wartime and postwar conditions is a much more complicated responsibility than in ordinary times, and calls for a higher degree of public leadership. That is something for voters to consider when casting their ballots.

"We hear much about postwar planning to readjust the community to a peace time basis. It is just as timely for citizens to carefully consider the capabilities of those who aspire to public service, because the tasks ahead of us will demand sound thinking and unselfish action.

"The interests of city and county are so closely interwoven that the utmost cooperation must exist between the leaders of the two governmental subdivisions. I refer to development of water resources, improved and expanded highways, and every betterment that concerns the welfare of the entire community. It is for this reason that I am stressing the need for mutual helpfulness."

Dr. Webber came to San Diego in 1917 as a member of the staff of officers detailed to place the Naval hospital in operation. He retired from the navy in 1926 and since has specialized in oral surgery. He served a term on the board of education, and is active in fraternal circles. With Mrs. Webber and their son, James, he resides at 3505 Dumas st.

Burglars Busy In Ocean Beach

People who would rather steal than earn an honest living have been busy in Ocean Beach the past week.

The first of recent robberies was at Schneider's drug store where burglars jimmied the front door with heavy irons, prying it open and stole about $70 cash as well as a large quantity of cigarettes.

Saturday night at Ben Franklin store it is believed someone secreted themselves in the store before closing time and made off with about $100 cash, taking a hammer from the store counter to smash the lock and get out.

Monday night one of the liquor stores reports an attempted burglary though the thieves did not gain entrance as a burglar alarm sounded off and had scared away the miscreants before the police arrived.

Christian Science Women Merit Thanks for Goodwill

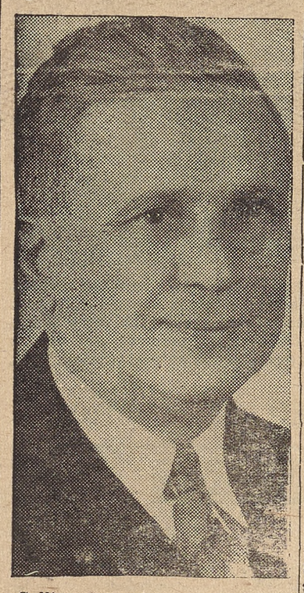
Women of the Sixth Church of Christ Scientist, Ocean Beach, in connection with others from all over our nation should receive the highest commendation for their worthwhile work in reconditioning clothes, making slippers, helmets, sweaters, socks, mittens and apparel which is sent to the suffering peoples of foreign lands.

The local group has rented a store building at 1955 Abbott st. and evidence there is that no finer mothers could be found on this earth than those who congregate to lend a share in alleviating some troubles of suffering humanity. The clothing on hand looks like new or as good as new and will perhaps save some person from pershing.

Four and one-half tons of this material is being gathered in Southern California and shipped each month from San Pedro.

In the last three months of 1943, 49,402 garments went to England, 64,156 to Russia, 1,147 to French relief, 2,600 to Greek relief and 6,520 to Czechs in Canada, making 123,825 garments sent out in three months from this section of the country. During the year similar workers in the Science church sent more than 1½ million garments to war weary people who sorely needed the aid.

Judge Weinberger Up for Reelection



Calling attention to his record of 33 years of public service to San Diego in many civic activities and in official positions, Superior Court Judge Jacob Weinberger today announced his candidacy for election to succeed himself at the primaries on May 16th—for the full six year term which begins Jan. 8, 1945. This is one of the three superior court judgeships to be voted upon at this election.

Judge Weinberger assumed the superior court bench on Jan. 2, 1943, and at the close of his first year's service in that important position he observed a new milestone when his five colleagues on the superior court honored him by choosing him as the presiding judge of that court.

Judge Weinberger assumed his present post following a career as city attorney during a period of municipal emergency which called for the solution of many intricate and important legal problems in city government in this vital war center, created and following the attack at Pearl Harbor.

As a former member of the Board of Education for 21 years he is credited with making a valuable contribution to San Diego's outstanding educational system.

Reared in Denver, Colo., he graduated from the Uiversnity of Colorado. Prior to coming to San Diego in 1911 he served as assistant district attorney at Globe, Ariz., and in 1910 he was elected and served as a member of the Constitutional Convention of Arizona when the constitution for that state was written.

Judge Weinberger has been engaged in the active practice of the law since 1904, rounding out a wide experience as a lawyer when he became judge of the superior court.

He is married, and has a son and daughter, and resides at 2441 C street.

Kiwanis Club Red Cross Drive In Business Area

The Ocean Beach Kiwanis club has taken over the duties of soliciting the business section of Ocean Beach in the 1944 Red Cross drive for funds to be used in this war emergency.

B. S. Mills has assumed the duties of chairman of the men and has assigned a pair of Kiwanians to each street. Mills will see to it that the work is carried out promptly by his committee who are to report their returns next Tuesday.

Judge Shell Tells of Candidacy

In announcing his candidacy at the May 16th primary election, for the Superior Court, Judge Joe L. Shell stated:

"I believe that my experience and record covering a period of more than 30 years in San Diego county should qualify me to serve the people of this county as a judge of the Superior Court. If elected, I will, to the best of my ability, administer justice fairly and impartially."

Born in Kansas, Judge Shell came to California in 1901, and to San Diego county in 1904. He graduated from the University of California, and was admitted to practice law in 1922.

After being admitted to practice, Judge Shell served as deputy city attorney of San Diego, and as deputy district attorney, and then for eight years engaged in the private practice of law. He was elected Justice of the Peace in 1934, became a Judge in the Municipal Court on July 1, 1937, has twice been re-elected to that office, and has served three terms as presiding judge of that court.

Judge Shell and his wife, Nell, an Escondido girl, were married in San Diego in 1918. Their two children both graduated from high school in San Diego. Their daughter is Mrs. Harold J. Cook. Their son, Joe jr., was an honor student at Hoover high school, captained the high school championship football team, and then at the University of Southern California became a three-year varsity letterman, and captained the U.S.C. varsity football team which defeated the University of Tennessee in the Rose Bowl in 1940. Joe jr., is now an officer in the United States Navy Air Corps.

THEOSOPHICAL CLASS

Lodge No. 37 of the Theosophical society, Ocean Beach, 4633 Long Branch st., holds public meetings every Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Tuesday, March 21st the class will study Sanskrit under the direction of Mrs. Mildred Traxler.

A Lotus circle for children at the same address is held every Sunday morning at 10:30.

A cordial welcome is extended to everyone interested in the "Teachings of Theosophy."

Vocational Training Changes Constantly

Graham Sullivan, head of San Diego's Vocational school since 1940, was guest speaker at Ocean Beach Kiwanis club Tuesday evening. Robert Sharon was program chairman and presided in expert style, levying fines where deserved and guiding the interest like a veteran toastmaster.

Mr. Sullivan reported the Department of Vocational Training of the City school system was making definite studies and research that would lead them to give the best training possible to youth and adult alike. In the nation, he stated, there will possibly be some 30 million people to be retrained for reemployment. This work has already begun for last year some 800,000 people were released by combat forces and the number this year will no doubt reach a million. Bills have been passed by the legislature to carry out this retraining work in connection with the U. S. Bureau of Education.

A survey of those employed now in war work shows that about 10 per cent were retired people and 40 per cent women. Most of the latter have signified their intention to leave industry when the emergency has passed and go back to carrying out household duties. San Diego is expected to have good openings as an aviation center, a naval center and as a tourist center.

At the present time Federal funds carry out the entire cost of war industry training but funds are being set aside by the counties and state to carry on vocational training when the war has ended.

Jack G. Unger, a marine, whose home state is Michigan, was a guest of the club.

Ellis D. Dugger, principal of the Brooklyn elementary school was a guest of Mr. Sharon.

Live Publisher Would Like to be District 1 Supervisor

Harrison W. Mason, San Diego community newspaper publisher last week announced his candidacy for county supervisor from the First district. In connection with his candidacy, Mason issued the following statement:

"Intelligent and diligent representation for the heavily populated First supervisorial district is necessity. It is a diversified residential, business as well as industrial district, including Pt. Loma, Loma Portal and Ocean Beach areas, Old San Diego, Mission Hills, Hillcrest, Park boulevard and Normal Heights.

"With a doubled population, San Diego has become a mighty industrial community. This growth should be continued. Payrolls mean jobs, jobs mean paychecks.

City Plan Needed

"San Diego must have a plan for one or more low-level superhighways to connect us with Imperial county and Arizona and the continental highway system planned by the federal government. We already have Highway 80. We should have one more lower highway through the mountains.

"A more generous share of gas tax money should be allotted for street betterment in the supervisorial districts within the city limits. Continued improvement is essential for Mission valley highway.

"Watchful attention is needed to solve San Diego's flood control, drainage and sewage problems. San Diego must acquire Colorado river water, and organize a water authority for that purpose.

Youth Direction

"Constant efforts should be directed to solve youth problems. Cooperation of all board members is necessary, and by the board with city, state and federal officials. Home rule should be emphasized; too much federal encroachment is not conducive to representative American government. Fish and game resources should be encouraged.

"Public officials should lead in enabling our service men and women to again take up useful avocations when victory comes. Cross-town thoroughfares through county and city must be projected.

For Reduced Taxes

"The splendid record made by the county board in saving $800,000 in taxes, should not only be continued, but further steps taken to reduce the cost of county government."

Mason has published three community newspapers in northeastern San Diego for more than six years. He is president of Adams Avenue Business club, an Eagle, Lion, past president of the Five C's, secretary-manager of Highway 80 Chamber of Commerce, member of El Cajon Boulevard and North Park Business clubs, Mission Bay Chamber of Commerce, and the Fish and Game association. He served two years on advisory board for Local Board 164, selective service system, in Normal Heights. His son, Pfc Harrison W. Mason jr., is a paratrooper.

Ocean Beach Exchange to Open in Noorda Building

The Ocean Beach Toy Exchange which operated before the holidays at 1930 Bacon st., will be reopened next week at 5005 Newport ave., as the Ocean Beach Exchange. The owners are now arranging the store room and putting in their merchandise, preparatory to opening the middle of the coming week.

32nd Anniversary For Camp Fire Girls

To celebrate their thirty-second birthday, which falls on Mar. 17, Camp Fire Girls of the Point Loma, Ocean Beach, Loma Portal, Cabrillo district will hold a joint Grand Council Fire on Sunday, March 19 at 1:45 p.m., at the Point Loma Presbyterian Community church. Bluebirds, junior members of the organization, will join in the ceremonies. Parents, friends, and any others who are interested in the program will be welcomed at this rededication to the ideals of Camp Fire Girls. Like programs are being held this month throughout the city and county.

Guardians and Bluebird leaders of groups participating in the affair are Mesdames John Lamont, Willard Holmstrom, Charles McCabe, Frank Straaka, Florence Kelsey, F. L. Ferris, Jay Flaschenhar. Mrs. Elliott G. Colby, council member and sponsor, will conduct the ritualistic work.

The traditional firelighting ceremony will take the form of igniting candles for the Past, the Present, and the Future, as well as one for the Bluebirds. A short history of the organization will be presented by girls of the Wetomachick group of Dana junior high. Burn, Fire, Burn, official motion song, will be sung by Wanca Huta of Point Loma high, and the credo recited by Joy Andrews of the same group.

All girls will unite in singing their law, and in other ritualistic observances. Ranks will be bestowed by Mrs. Frank Sloan, junior past president of the San Diego County council, and various types of honors will be awarded to the girls by their respective guardians.

Demonstrating the extensive contributions of Camp Fire girls individually and collectively, to the war effort, many girls will receive the Service for Victory badge, and will be recognized for the ranks achieved in the Thriftee Army. Maurice Ross, board member and past president, will make these interesting presentations. Tanda group of Loma Portal will offer a thriftee skit to explain what girls must do to qualify for all ranks, from private to master sergeant, and on to a commission as lieutenant. The required assignments range from salvage work, Victory gardens, and forming good health habits, to raising money to buy a bond towards the purchase of an ambulance plane pledged by the national organization. The names Rosie Ration, Susie Savehealth, Sally Salvage, Hattie Harvest, Connie Clothescare, Winnie War Bond, and Merrie Morale are expressive of the tasks involved.

To close the council fire, taps will be sung and the Rev. S. Dean McBride will offer the benediction.

Newspapermen Will Meet in Ocean Beach

The San Diego unit California Newspaper Publishers Assn. will have a dinner meet this evening at 7 at Glenn's Drive-In cafe, to discuss business pertaining to newspaper problems and improvement.

It being St. Patrick's day corned beef and cabbage has been ordered for those able to partake of such plain but nourishing food.

P.T.-A. Says Youth Leaders Needed Here

The March meeting of the P.-T. A. was held in the school auditorium at 1:30 Tuesday, March 14, with Mrs. Albert Smith, president, presiding. The theme for the day was "Providing Leadership Through Youth Organizations."

Following a brief business meeting, a program was presented by members of the Camp Fire Girls, Cubs, Brownies and Girl Scouts portraying the aims and activities of the different organizations. Over 140 children participated. Brief talks were then given by Miss Alice Shallenberger of the Girl Scouts, Miss Elnora Larkin of the Camp Fire Girls, and Don Sweetwood of the Boy Scouts, all stressing the great need for more leaders for these organizations. We are doing a good job in Ocean Beach, but there are still a great many boys and girls waiting for new adult leaders to make it possible for them to join the group of their choice.

Leaders of the groups were hostesses for the afternoon and also were responsible for the attractive table decorated with dolls dressed to represent a Camp Fire Girl, a Girl Scout, a Brownie and a Cub.

Lt. Charles K. Fletcher Drafted by Friends To Run for Congress

Courage, energy and youth must be the weapons of San Diego's Congressional representative to meet the challenging problems which face this district now, and will face it after victory, according to E. Garrick O'Bryan jr., who today announced the candidacy of Lt. Charles K. Fletcher, USNR, for nomination on the Republican and Democratic tickets at the May 16 primary election.

"San Diego needs a vigorous man in Congress who will truly represent its citizens, and will speak out for them," O'Bryan said. "Such a congressman will fight for the things that will help our city and county to grow and posper after the war is ended.

"The role of San Diego as the west coast's foremost naval base, in peacetime as well as in war, must be assured. The war worker, the returning service man and the little business man have a right to expect their congressman to battle for their security.

"Instead of standing by while efforts are made to give away water and power rights of the Colorado river, he must advocate San Diego's interests, and obtain federal aid in bringing water here.

"It is also vital that San Diego be a western terminus of the propost postwar super highway. Boundless possibilities of San Diego as a port of maritime commerce with the countries of the Pacific must be exploited to the fullest.

"Lt. Fletcher is aware of the fact that people are fed up with petty politics, too many laws and too much red tape. He knows that most of them want a simple, direct and commonsense approach that will, for instance, simplify the tax structure, stop waste and extravagance, and reduce bureaucracy to a minimum.

"Adult Americans are tired of being treated like little children. They want the honest unsugared truth within the limits of military security. They favor the good neighbor policy—but only when it works both ways. And they are opposed to unfairness and discrimination and want the Constitution preserved in its entirety."

Born, raised and educated in San Diego, Fletcher is 41, married, has two sons and a daughter, and is at present on active duty with the United States Navy. He is president of the Home Federal Savings and Loan association of San Diego and has long been active in San Diego civic affairs.

Azure Vista People Sponsor Scout Troop 9

Troop 9, sponsored by the Azure Vista Civic council in Ocean Beach, was invested and presented with its new charter Friday evening by scouts and scout leaders of Troop 25, which is sponsored by the Normal Heights Methodist church.

The following leaders of the new troop were presented with their commissions by Commissioner Fred Tucker: F. M. Russell, A. W. Muschbacher, H. W. Fillry, Dana H. Roe, J. D. Good jr., J. R. Newman, F. G. Kimball, W. L. Jenkins, D. O. Bodie, W. O. Dodd jr., and Estes C. Wright.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

National Income Reaches Record High; Reds Press Closer to Baltic States; See-Saw Fight on Anzio Beachhead; U. S. Reinforced in Admiralty Islands

NATIONAL INCOME:
Record Level

Boomed by the war effort, the national income of the nation's 50 million workers soared to 142 billion dollars in 1943, with about two-thirds of it spent for goods and services, the department of commerce announced.

Reflecting the country's full swing into high speed production during 1943, income increased 26 billion dollars over 1942, but reflecting the continued shortage of civilian goods, expenditures only went up 8½ billion dollars.

From July to March, government spending reached 60 billion dollars, with 56 billion dollars paid out for the war effort. During this period, government receipts totaled 25 billion dollars, leaving a deficit of almost 35 billion dollars. Because of the recent fourth war loan drive, the government had a cash balance of 19 billion dollars.

Beverage Purchases

Of the 90 billion dollars that consumers spent for goods and services in 1943, six billion dollars were expended for alcoholic beverages, the department of commerce revealed. This brought expenditures for liquors up to $46 per person, compared with $39 in 1942 and $26 in 1939.

Despite the record expenditures for alcoholic beverages, however, less liquor was actually drunk, price increases accounting for the rise. Less than 74 million gallons of hard liquor were consumed in 1943, compared with 88 million gallons in 1942. Wine consumption dropped below the 1942 level of 112 million gallons.

Total beer consumed increased during 1943, however, chiefly because of a rise in demand from 10 million to 44 million barrels of the bottled type.

SOLDIER VOTE:
Compromise Bill

In an effort to give servicemen overseas every chance to vote and yet protect states' rights in supervising elections, congressional conferees drew up a compromise bill.

Under the bill, servicemen overseas from states with no absentee voting laws could use the blank federal ballot with only the names of the political parties designated if their governors approve, or, servicemen from states with absentee voting laws could only use the federal ballot if they fail to receive their state ballot by October 1.

So far, 20 states are reported to have adequate absentee voting laws, while nine others are considering such laws or about to convene their legislators to take up action on the issue.

RUSSIA:
Fighting; Diplomacy

Nibbling deeper into Nazi defense lines, Red troops pressed ever closer to the Baltic states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, while German forces clung bitterly to their positions behind Russian forces at the southern end of the 800 mile front.

In Finland, there was agitation for better peace terms from the Russians as a basis for withdrawing from the war, with opposition to Moscow's proposals for restoration of the 1940 borders and discussion about disposition of northern Finnish territory.

Crossing the Narva river, Red troops advanced 15 miles into Estonia, while other Russ forces converged on the Latvian gateway of Pskov. Far to the south, the Reds met bitter German resistance as they tried to whittle down Nazi lines to the rear of General Vatutin's troops in Poland.

EUROPE:
Hold Ground

With concentrations of heavy enemy artillery pouring shells onto their beachhead, and with strong German armored forces stabbing into their lines, U. S. and British troops under command of Allied Gen. Harold Alexander held their own in see-saw fighting below Rome.

Gen. Alexander

Meanwhile, Allied bombers continued to blast at Nazi fighter-plane plants in Germany to reduce aerial resistance to a second-front and further attacks on European war industry.

Three times the Nazis lashed at Allied lines below Rome with tanks after heavy artillery preparations, and three times gallant U. S. and British troops gave way, only to bounce back in savage counterattacks restoring lost ground.

PACIFIC:
Gain Admiralties

Fighting with their backs to the wall in Japan's crumbling string of defensive outposts, enemy troops bitterly resisted U. S. landings on the Admiralty islands to the north of New Britain and the Solomons.

Bringing in strong reinforcements, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command maneuvered the Japs into spreading their limited strength, however, and robbing them of concerted striking power.

As U. S. doughboys tightened their grip on the Admiralties, American warplanes ranged the whole breadth of the battle area, continuing to pound the big enemy base of Rabaul on New Britain, former feeder point for Jap barges supplying outlying islands. Occupation of the Admiralties put U. S. bomber forces directly in the path of enemy cargo shipping sailing southward to Rabaul, further weakening the once formidable base.

AGRICULTURE:
Corn Ceiling Sticks

Shortly after OPA had advised the Chicago Board of Trade president, Philip O'Brien, that the $1.16 price ceiling on corn would stick through 1944, the War Food administration announced allocation of wheat for food, feed, alcohol, export and lend-lease would begin before June.

In testifying before a senate agriculture subcommittee, O'Brien advocated a $1.45 corn top to relieve the drain on wheat for feeding hogs, since price supports on pigs make it more profitable to fatten them than sell grain on the market.

O'Brien's statement that the country was consuming more wheat than it produced was substantiated by department of agriculture statistics which show that over one billion bushels of the grain disappeared in 1943 against harvesting of 850 million bushels.

Support Egg Prices

Continuing its policy of supporting egg prices at parity, the War Food administration announced that it would pay an average of 30 cents per dozen for the period ending April 15.

Since January 1, WFA bought the equivalent of 3,980,000 cases, or 119,400,000 dozen, of shell eggs. Actually WFA purchased only 280,000 cases of shell eggs, although its acquisitions of dried eggs were the equal of 3,700,000 cases.

Continued WFA carlot purchases will be on the basis of U. S. wholesale No. 1 and No. 2 extras, with 45 pounds minimum net weight.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

LEGISLATION: To discourage governmental agencies from issuing directives that do not express the intentions of congress, Rep. Wollcott of Michigan suggested at a committee meeting that hereafter all acts when passed have this footnote added: "By God, we mean it!" He also proposed that all legislation be written in words of one or two syllables.

JET PLANES: An article in the official publication "Air Force" states that the new jet-propelled planes can travel at least a hundred miles faster than the present propeller-driven planes. This is because air becomes compressible at speeds of 450 miles per hour, and the effect becomes apparent on the propeller. The jet-driven plane is not bothered by this phenomenon.

Roman Delicacy

Harting in "The Rabbit" states that Lucullus and Vitellus ransacked the world for table rabbits as foreign luxuries in old Rome. Strabo, the Greek traveler and geographer, (64 B. C.-19 A. D.) writes of shiploads of rabbits sent from Spain to the Roman markets. Some idea of the high esteem in which Cuniculus was held in his native Spain at the beginning of the Christian era is shown by the fact that rabbits were engraved on the coins and medals of Hispania, then a Roman province wrested from Carthage. Catullus, the gifted Roman poet (84-54 B. C.) called Spain Cuniculosa Celtiberia. Many writers mention the high place held by Bunny among bon-vivants of medieval Spain. In Portugal, an unforgettable fricassee is made from a time-hallowed recipe by braising the rabbit before boning it, and then cooking in sauce Espagnole. Thudichum, in "The Spirit of Cookery," (1895) records the fact that the chief cook of Hippolito, Cardinal of Ferrara, extolled both the rabbit and hare as being among the best meat animals in his kitchens, so it seems that the vogue for table rabbits continued in Italy long after the passing of Roman grandeur.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

"All the world is Irish on the seventeenth o' March!"

Even in the midst of a world at war the day for the wearin' of the green will lack none of its traditional jollity and good fellowship as the sons of Erin gather in the far-flung places of the earth to celebrate the memory of Ireland's great patron saint.

The happy nature of the Irish together with the fiery spirit have won them the friendship of people wherever they have gone.

So the world celebrates with them on the seventeenth o' March.

VICTORY GARDENS

In spite of the fact that many Americans found Victory gardening a matter of toil and sweat along with a few tears when things occasionally didn't turn out so well as expected, Uncle Sam is going to have more recruits for the "backyard battalion" this year than last.

Large seed companies report the demand for vegetable seeds is heavier and earlier than a year ago. The National Victory Garden conference has set a goal of 22 million gardens—an increase of two million over 1943.

Although aware that many families still have supplies of canned goods on hand from last year's effort, the United States Department of Agriculture points out the urgency of raising as much this season as possible. America's large-scale, direct line distribution systems will help bring us the bulk of our food through multi-unit retail outlets, but the food raised at home will guard against shortages that might arise from crop failures in any of the various agricultural sections of the country.

Victory gardeners should profit by the experience of last year and plan to stagger their crops so that there will be an even flow of produce over a longer period—rather than too much of certain foods at one time.

So right now is the time to plan your victory garden and "dig in" to your task.

SPRING CLEANING

Spring arrives officially on March 21.

But nature doesn't wait for an official announcement of its arrival before beginning the job of painting the hills and splashing the trees with the colors that make spring the "bright spot" of the year.

Maybe it is this "paint job" that makes us all want to follow suit—to clean up the yard of accumulated rubbish, hoe out the winter weeds, paint the house, repair the back porch, paper the spare bedroom and do the many other things that should be done.

In these days of material and equipment shortages, it is more important than ever that we keep our homes in "ship shape" condition.

Spring cleaning this year also carries with it the responsibility of looking out for scrap metals or other waste materials that can be used in the war effort.

So clean up, brighten up. Let us make things "shine" along with the spring sun.

JACK B. TENNEY
Veteran Los Angeles County Legislator who is a candidate for the U. S. Senate

Better Paste Right Sticker On Your Windshield

A check of gas-ration windshield stickers, similar to that which brought action against thousands of Los Angeles motorists recently, will be started here, B. Kenneth Goodman, district OPA chief enforcement attorney, disclosed recently.

Beginning in city areas where there are heavy concentrations of motor vehicles, the inquiry eventually will be extended all over the county, Goodman said.

Because of their importance in controlling black market activities, regulations governing display of the stickers are strict, ranging from provisions for revocation of rations to fines and imprisonment, the official explained. He reminded that it is mandatory to display a sticker on the windshield, that it is improper to display stickers of more than one type, and that it is illegal to display an "A" sticker if the motorist holds a "B" or other higher ration.

Service station operators, Goodman added, can and should refuse service to persons not displaying stickers or displaying them wrongly.

Editors and Publicity People Enjoy Army, Navy, Marine Exhibit

San Diego city and county newspaper editors, radio executives, members of the San Diego War Advertising Advisory Council together with representatives of the Chamber of Commerce publicity committee Saturday got a realistic back-of-the-scenes view of training methods at Camp Elliot and the Naval Training Station as a prelude to witnessing the Army and Navy show at Balboa stadium in the evening.

The group, guests of Rear Adm. W. L. Friedell, commandant of the 11th Naval District and Maj. Gen. Clayton B. Vogel, USMC, commanding Fleet Marine Force, saw a dramatic demonstration of combat reaction of men under heavy fire, one of the final stages in the marine training program.

Under the watchful eye of Brig. Gen. Mathew H. Kingman, three waves of fully-equipped men crawled across a heavily-mined, barb-wired field dodging a withering fire from blazing machine guns, blasts from simulated aerial bombardment and clouds of multi-colored "gas." Seriousness of the maneuver that left visiting writers gasping was summed up in the terse order of the instructor for the soldiers to keep their heads well down. "There is no future in getting off the ground. Crawl like a snake—don't creep like a baby if you want to keep from carrying your head home under your arm," he said.

High spot of the demonstration was the work of the medical detachment on the field. At the height of the battle action they ministered to the wounded while lying on the ground, applying emergency treatment before crawling to the safety of the nearest trench with the wounded man in tow.

An opportunity to personally discover the dangers of "booby traps" and land mines was provided by Camp Elliot officers who escorted the group through the training village where marines are taught to avoid the dangers of hidden explosives. More inquisitive newshawks quickly discovered that innocent-looking books, carelessly opened doors or windows were literally loaded with dynamite and the "open sesame" to the hereafter.

Traveling in three navy buses, the 85 journalists left Elliot for the Naval Training Station where they were greeted by Comdr. J. J. Curley jr., acting commandant of the station and his aides. Recreational facilities, classrooms, machine shops and quarters were inspected. At the machine gun training center, the visitors were given an opportunity to operate the Mark IV trainer and attempted to wipe a few Zeros from the skies. Only a paltry 305 hits out of 12,000 rounds of ammunition were registered by the amateur gunners according to the figures revealed by the automatic device counting hits and misses.

Following the tour of the station, Comdr. Curley and his staff played host at a typical navy mess. Great stacks of steak, French fried potatoes, squash, green peas, mixed vegetable salad, avocado, hot biscuits and milk quickly disappeared as the scribes vied with the "boots" in a gastronomic race.

Norman R. Barnes, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce publicity committee, and Forrest Raymond, who arranged the tour in cooperation with Comdr. E. R. "Andy" Anderson, USNR, chief of the district's public relations office, spoke briefly following the meal.

The battle spectacle presented at Balboa stadium as the Army's method of getting behind the San Diego program to stick to the job to finish the job was another reminder of the grim realities of war and that the increasing temper of the struggle in the Pacific will call for even greater effort by the men and machines in the months ahead.

The show won high praise from the writers—echoed by the more than 30,000 people who jammed every inch of space in the Bowl. They saw in the show a tremendous boost for "back home" morale and a rekindling of a firmer determination for additional production records to back up the men in battle.

The Camp Elliot demonstration of the afternoon was etched into the overall canvass of the evening show. Working on an actual battle problem, recreating the capture of a Japanese atoll, attacking troops from the 63rd armored infantry battalion used everything from rifles to heavy field pieces in the thundering battle scenes, performed under a canopy of red, white and blue light from 36 searchlights—each sending 800,000,000 candlepower beams into the low-hung clouds. Thrills were numerous, including the lighting of thousands of matches by spectators in a darkened stadium to form a star-studded picture; brief talks by war heroes from their beds in the Naval hospital, transmitted by remote control; flame throwers ejecting great streams of fire 50 yards or more into the air as troops stormed a Jap pillbox; armored cars with guns blazing pursuing Jap tanks; a marine judo act; a hurdle jump by Jeeps towing 37-mm guns, and a combat construction demonstration by army engineers.

In addition to the battle program, there were six army, navy, marine and coast guard bands, among them Lt. Rudy Vallee's district coast guard band and Master Sgt. Skinny Ennis' Santa Anita Ordnance band. Red Skelton, comedian, also entertained.

Climaxing the show was a speech by Mrs. Mary Alloway, war mother and Rohr aircraft worker, with three sons in the service, who led the audience in a pledge to "stay on the job and finish the job."

Localities who made the trip included Mr. and Mrs. Heber Hartvigsen of the Ocean Beach News.

WE DEMAND REAL REPRESENTATION IN CONGRESS!

You are invited to join this growing movement toward BETTER GOVERNMENT

There is work to be done in Washington. Our future is at stake. Let's back the best qualified man to represent us in congress, to look after our interests.

We ask you to support Charles K. Fletcher, Lt. U.S.N.R., on active duty. He is the man asked by us to file his name for the Congressional Primaries.

Our next Congressman should be a young man trained in government. Should have courage to stand up for the people. Should have unlimited energy -- there is work to be done.

What you can do. You can take an active part. Start now! Write to Charles K. Fletcher, 1018 Ninth Ave., San Diego, Cal. Tell him what you want from your next congressman.

This notice has been prompted by over a thousand people in all walks of life who have signed a petition to DRAFT CHARLES K. FLETCHER for Congress.

ISN'T it worth twice what you gave last year to know that "Your RED CROSS is at his side . . . !"

Decide now to give twice as much!

This is Albert A. Arnhyn, consulting engineer of the Solar Aircraft Co., who has just been elected an associate fellow of the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences in New York City in recognition for his "pioneering work in the field of the comfortization of aircraft." Arnhyn coined the word "comfortization" and has written extensively about its need. Solar is carrying on research in this new phase of aeronautical science.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Turn ye not unto idols, nor make to yourselves molten gods: I am the Lord your God." This command from Leviticus will be the Golden Text in the Sunday Lesson Sermon on "Matter" in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

"Comfort ye, comfort ye my people, saith your God," writes the prophet Isaiah. The Lesson-Sermon message then continues. "Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be made low: and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough places plain: And the glory of the Lord shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together: for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it. . . . The grass withereth, the flower fadeth: but the word of our God shall stand for ever."

Mary Baker Eddy writes in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures:" "Matter is neither created by Mind nor for the manifestation and support of Mind. . . . In proportion as the belief disappears that life and intelligence are in or of matter, the immortal facts of being are seen, and their only idea or intelligence is in God."

Automobile Club Issues Fine Maps for City and County

New San Diego county and city maps have just been issued by the Automobile Club of Southern California, according to an announcement made today by that organization's touring bureau.

The county map is the most thorough and detailed charting of San Diego county in existence. The Automobile club revealed that a year and a half was spent in its preparation and that cartographers were eight months in the field on this one charting alone.

All roads from main arterial highways to truck trails and fire roads are indicated on the map. Surfaces and conditions of many of the roads, mileage and accumulated mileage figures are also marked. In addition the locations of schools, cemeteries, mines, springs, and parks are clearly discernible as well as the physical characteristics of the country.

The new San Diego city and vicinity map covers the cities of Coronado, El Cajon, La Mesa, and National City, and the communities of Bonita, Grossmont, Mission Beach, Bostonia, La Jolla, Ocean Beach, Encanto, Lemon Grove, Pacific Beach, Santee, Sunnyside and Linda Vista.

In addition to marking the municipal boundaries, U.S. and State highways and local streets, this map gives block numbers, improved and unimproved streets, and unimproved rights of way. Other items indicated on the map are schools, public buildings, points of interest, parks and recreation centers, and bodies of water.

Miss Gallagher's first grade class in Ocean Beach school is making a cafeteria in their room. After our study of the market, we are anxious to serve some of the food we sold in our store.

We also planted a Victory garden, sowing carrot, raddish, lettuce and spinach seeds so as to have vegetables to serve in the cafeteria. It will be fun planning our specials and menus so as to have the best combination of foods.

* * *

Spring has come—and with it two important events to the third grade, room 13, at Ocean Beach school.

Library awards have been given to 10 students who won them by reading eight or more books and there are still nine more who will receive them shortly. We hear Dorothy Myers won the highest honor for this activity.

The second event is the rice festival. Since rice is the most important food of the Orient, the third grade made a play about it. Carl Middaugh is the good spirit who brings the sun and the rain. Roger Lyman is the bad spirit who brings the bugs and drives the sun away. Four princes come to honor the day—Prince Ping, Carrol Bartholomew; Prince Pear, Dick Prevost; Prince Ting-a-Ling, Maurice Mairot; Prince Chop Chop, Delbert Harper, and most important of all President Chiang Kai Shek, Bobby Sharon, arrives to plant the rice.

As the president walks along, two dainty flower girls, Jeannette Neil and Dorothy Myers, and two dancing girls, Shirley Batt and Norma Willmoth, follow along.

Since the Chinese people like poetry very much, four poets will be there on that day. Our poets are Maureen Clark, Mary Dinkheller, Norma Willmoth and Shirley Batt.

Of course we have a dragon for the Chinese always have a dragon at all their festivals. This one has silver spots and is very gay in color. The following people make the feet of this monster: Yvonne Baldwin, Nancy Hager, Jerry Berkman, Larry Douglas, Joe Brown and Dale Thoman.

If we're lucky we may have rice cakes.

We hope you can come.

INTERESTING BACKGROUND OF PACIFIC ISLANDS

SOME HALF DOZEN years ago, when in Honolulu, I learned of a resident Frenchman who owned a Pacific island lying about 1,300 miles south of the city, a possible landing base for the Hawaiian-New Zealand air line then being considered. The Frenchman's home was but a short distance from my hotel and I called on him. He spoke no English and I could not understand his French. nor he my English, so we enlisted the services of his Hawaiian wife as an interpreter. What he may have said I do not know, as his wife refused to translate it on the grounds it was something he should not say.

"Had he not talked too much, his deal would have been completed the island sold, before the navy stopped him," she said.

I went to the navy to find out what it was all about.

That island, Palmyra, 1,300 miles away, is within the city limits of Honolulu and the city had imposed a city tax which the French owner thought unreasonable. When his protests were unavailing, he proposed to sell and a Jap had offered to buy.

The Frenchman had been a South Sea island trader, operating a small fleet of trading boats, and had used the island as a rendezvous. It was but one of the thousands of uninhabited coral atolls of the Pacific. It was horse-shoe shaped, with sufficient space and water inside the horse-shoe to float a navy or provide an excellent landing place for seaplanes. The navy objected to the island passing into the hands of a Jap owner, and had prohibited the sale, but had induced the city to lower the tax assessment.

Today Palmyra island and Johnson island, some 400 miles to the west of Palmyra, are American airfields playing a part in the battle of the Pacific. Had that Frenchman not talked too much both islands might have been Jap airfields.

While in Honolulu, I watched the departure of a dozen native Hawaiian boys as they sailed away for Johnson island on a school vacation trip. Johnson island was then a no-man's land, no nation had claimed it. It was but a dot on the broad Pacific, only some three miles in diameter, and at no point more than six or seven feet above sea level. Those boys claimed it as American territory, a part of the city of Honolulu. Midway island, 1,100 miles northwest of Honolulu, is also within the city limits. In area that city, lying far out in mid-Pacific, with its surrounding fortifications representing the bastion that protects our West coast, is several times larger than any other city in the world.

PRIVILEGE OF SAYING 'YOU ARE FIRED'

ONE REASON for our ever-increasing multiplicity of government bureaus, administrations or departments is said to be the President's dislike to fire any one. To avoid that he but creates, by executive decree, a new bureau and transfers to it the job the inefficient appointee failed at doing, leaving him on the payroll but without any real duties to perform. To me that unwillingness to fire is an appealing trait, even though it may be expensive for the government. Throughout a lifetime of acquaintances I have known only three people who courted the privilege of discharging employees. To those three the privilege of saying "you are fired" provided a thrill. All three of them were always very much afraid of being fired. Not that they feared losing a job, but they did not want the stigma of having been discharged. All three were unhappy individuals with but few, if any, real friends, and they hated themselves.

* * *

OTHERS MUST HELP FEED AND CLOTHE EUROPE

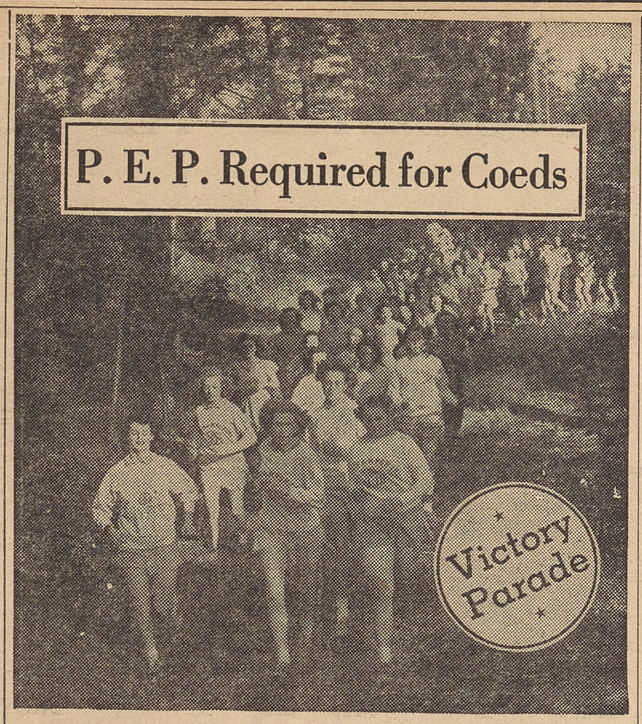
WITHIN LESS than six months we spent more than 126 million dollars for food and clothing for the people of North Africa. Within the next six months it is expected we will have poured more than 500 million in food and clothing into Italy. Such items represent but a small start in the job that lies ahead. The people of Europe, friend or enemy, must be fed and clothed. It cannot be done in a strictly idealistic way. It is not a job for the welfare enthusiast who spends the other fellow's money. It is a job for practical, hard-headed individuals who realize we, alone, cannot save Europe at the expense of starving America. We can do a considerable portion of the job but there are others who must help or the American people will rebel.

* * *

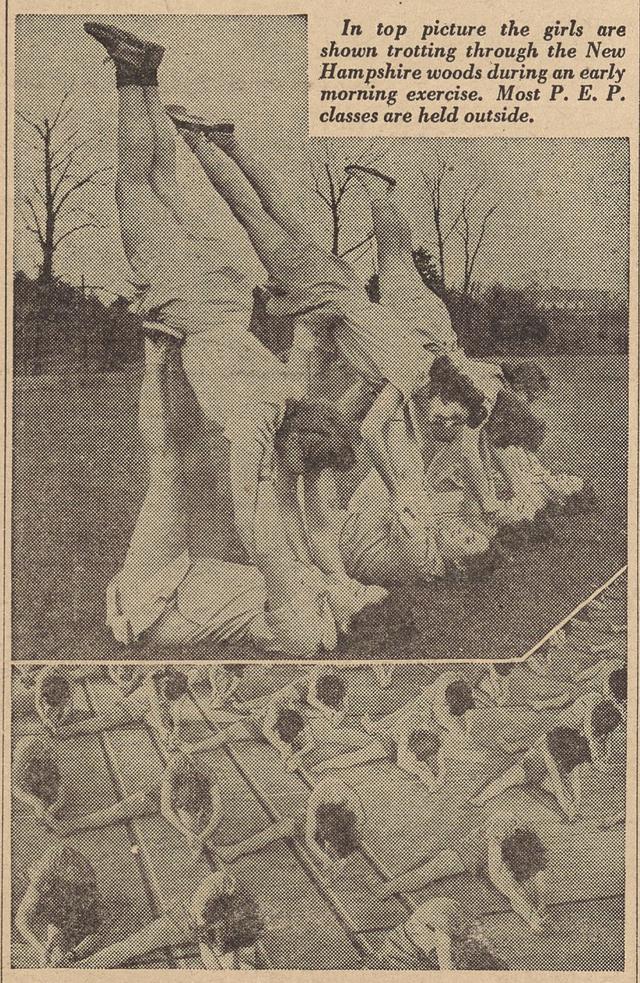
NO INDIVIDUAL, group, class or party in America has a monopoly on the desire and intention to win the war. Even the most rock-ribbed isolationist proposes to see that job to a finish. There might be an argument as to the methods or cost of winning, or under what leadership, but there is no argument as to the intended result.

* * *

THERE IS an always needed lesson that 10 million men in the armed services have learned. There must always be a boss.



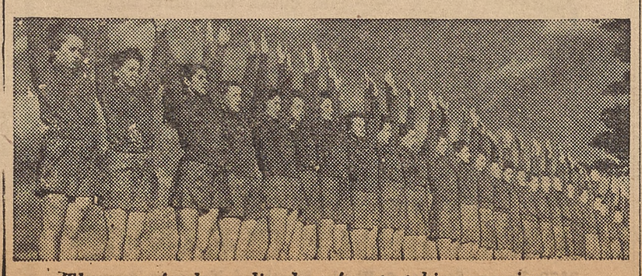
P. E. P. is becoming a "must" in American schools. In order to cut down the number of unhealthy U. S. citizens, students are urged to enroll in physical educational programs. Coeds of the University of New Hampshire are shown at physical fitness classes.



In top picture the girls are shown trotting through the New Hampshire woods during an early morning exercise. Most P. E. P. classes are held outside.

Top: Stunt and tumbling students give their version of the flying angel which is said to be good for developing balance. Bottom: In this exercise the body is swung from the waist from one foot to the other as the hands grasp each ankle in turn.

Archery is included in the P. E. P. program. In top inset belles and their bows are shown lined up on the field. One of the best limbering-up exercises makes use of the grandstand. Instead of just sitting, these coeds run all over it.



These are freshmen lined up for stretching exercises.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Muffins

2 tablespoons shortening	¾ cup milk
¼ cup sugar	1 cup sifted flour
1 egg	½ teaspoon salt
1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran	2½ teaspoons baking powder

Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add egg and beat well. Stir in All-Bran and milk. Let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture. Stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans ⅔ full. Bake in hot oven (400°F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 8 large muffins.
* For spiced muffins, add 1 tablespoon molasses to creamed mixture, and ½ teaspoon ginger or 1 teaspoon cinnamon to dry ingredients.
* For nut muffins, add ½ cup chopped nut meats to dry ingredients.

And remember, too, KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN by itself is a rich, natural source of the whole grain "protective" food elements — protein, the B vitamins, phosphorus, calcium and iron!

MORE FARM TRACTORS ARE EQUIPPED with Firestone
GROUND GRIP TIRES
THAN WITH ANY OTHER MAKE

WHEN a product wins and holds customer-preference year in and year out you know its leadership is established on merit. On every score, by every yardstick of value, it has met and passed the test of critical public appraisal.

Since Firestone developed the first practical pneumatic tractor tire 12 years ago and put the farm on rubber, farmers have shown an ever-increasing preference for Firestone Ground Grip Tires. Their point-for-point superiority is known wherever farm tractors roll. That's why farmers, today as always, use more Firestone Ground Grip Tractor Tires than any other make.

Cadet Walter Vogel, Mid. W. G. writes his mother, Mrs. Mary Lee, from Kings Point, N. Y.

Dearest Mother:

Received your letters and was sure glad to hear from you. Thanks for sending me the Ocean Beach News. Doug Smith and I really have a big time reading it. I thought I would be lonesome here, but there are loads of fellows who went to school with me in 'Frisco. When they made up our section, who should be assigned as my room mate but Doug Smith of Ocean Beach and Bill Shumate, one of the boys from 'Frisco. So we're one happy family.

The academy is just about 20 miles from New York. We have everything here—indoor and outdoor swimming pools, a huge gym; football, baseball and basketball teams, bands and glee clubs—most everything you can think of. The band marches around blowing their heads off. Makes me think of good old Pt. Loma high.

Frances is coming out to see me Sunday. I am going to show her our cadet model room, the big machine shop, steam lab, diesel lab, electric lab and classrooms. We have plenty of study and exams as well as work here, but I know that I am not here for a picnic and am trying to make the most of the opportunity. We originally started out with 29 cadets in our section, but seven have flunked out so now we have 22. The going gets pretty tough now and then but I always manage to get through all right.

You certainly make swell friends in an academy like this. Its quite different from what I thought it would be. I remember you told me if one makes up his mind to like a thing, one will get through a whole lot easier. It is certainly true. Guess what? Just had a letter from Jim Masters at Annapolis. Sounds like the same old Jim. Was it ever grand hearing from him. He is graduating in June, too.

We sure are having crazy weather. It snowed again—about two feet deep. Well, Mother, I must stop and "hit" the books again.

Loads of love,

FORMER BANK CLERK HERE WRITES ASSOCIATES

The following letter was received this week by Rollin Reed, manager Bank of America at Ocean Beach, from a former employee, Wayne Rosenberg, who as a host of friends here that wish him every good thought in his duties on the war front:

Feb. 24, 1944

Dear Mr. Reed and Gang:

Here is just a brief note to let you know I'm still ticking and thinking of everyone back there at the bank.

At present we are somewhere on the high seas, pitching and snorting towards our destination. Yep, the cool salt spray is really batting us in the face.

Mom has written me and told me that usually you inform her when you receive a letter, which is very thoughtful—thanks.

We are finally heading back to my old home port, which I will be glad to see arise over the long strung out horizon. Yep and too, I'll see some of my buddies there, to make their eyes pop when I tell them the exciting stories. Nope and they won't be fish stories either.

Yes and one has kind of a lump in his throat, when he comes limping in on his battle-scarred ship, leaving so many fellows behind on the lonely islands.

Every time I go to write a word it seems like someone is picking me up and bouncing me like a helpless rubber ball.

No telling where we will turn our bow from our next destination—maybe back to the mainland.

Even though the sea is great it would sure be great to have a little shore duty on the mainland. Yes, after a guy has had 18 months overseas duty he gets plenty lonesome for some bright lights.

We have a long ways to sail yet and I have to go on duty, so again I'll have to make this letter writing brief.

So in closing, I hope that this letter finds all's well and that I hear from you soon. Oh yes, I wrote a letter to Bob a few days ago.

Well Mr. Reed and gang, there is my name over the loud-speaker to relieve the signal watch, so so long everybody and do write soon.

Sincerely yours,
—WAYNE.

The Red Cross In Ocean Beach

By ONA E. PITCOCK

This week our cookies will be in boxes decorated in honor of St. Patrick. Shamrocks on the covers and an Irish lad and lassie on the napkins. The boys in the hospital get such a thrill out of these little things. It helps to let them know that they are not forgotten and that we do appreciate the sacrifices they have made for us. If you could see those boys minus hands, arms, legs, eyes and scarred faces you would not feel that it is too much bother to make a few cookies, or spend a few cents for a book, games, puzzles, or some little gift for our gift box. You are living in a peaceful home right now because they have made the sacrifices and kept the enemy from our shores. Many of their kiddies have made the supreme sacrifice and will never come home. Please help, all you can, to help these boys on sick beds bear their sufferings. Right now I want to ask you who have citrus fruit growing in your yards or who can obtain oranges, lemons, etc., will you please take them to the Service Men's club in Balboa park, Red Cross headquarters or to your local Red Cross center, 4769 Del Monte ave. These are needed for punch at the Service Men's club. Most of these boys who come to the club have been on long service in tropical climates and are now convalescing and not only need these juices but do so enjoy them. We who have them all the time can hardly realize what they mean to those who have lived on canned rations so long. Red Cross wants to give special thanks to those who have already donated. There are many little things you can do for our sick boys so please call your local center, B-5639 and find out what you can do.

Remember, we want aprons and hot pads for our sale which will be held around Easter at the Thrift shop. The proceeds to be used for articles for our boys. All reclaimed wool is sold and the proceeds used for the same purpose. Don't throw away any old wool clothing or rayon clothing. Red Cross have many volunteer workers who know how to save all wool and rayon out of scraps so please have a bag handy and save these.

Some very pretty aprons and hot pads have been turned into the center. Mrs. Mae Heidbrink's ladies brought in cute ones. They also brought in some very nice lap- or jeep robes which went immediately to the hospital. These robes were exceptionally warm. These ladies also send in some very fine knitted articles.

The center has yarn for sweaters, watch-caps, socks and helmets. Please call and see what you can do to help.

I want to remind all you ladies to help your government by saving your old fats. You receive 2 red stamps and 4 cents for each pound and it is so badly needed

I need not tell you this is Red Cross roll call because you hear it on your radio and read it in your newspapers and every red-blooded American knows how badly your donations are needed in this terrible time of strife. Give until it hurts. You women who husbands give at their place of employment can at least give a dollar out of your allowance and not only receive a membership card of your own but have the satisfaction of knowing you personally have helped.

Don't forget we want a lot of cookies for our special Easter boxes. Mrs. Bernice Larson brought in a beautiful St. Patrick birthday box for the hospital. The lucky boy who has a birthday on that day will receive it and have a little party. There will be one for Easter.

Your blood may save a life so call F-7704 and make an appointment.

Remember wherever your boy is, at his side is the Red Cross.

Easter Seals Help Crippled Children

Despite difficulties imposed by wartime conditions, the Society for Crippled Children of San Diego county, is carrying forward its great humanitarian effort to aid physically handicapped boys and girls, according to William H. Evans, president. He emphasized this in urging greater public support of the annual sale of Easter Seals, now under way.

Evans pointed out that the past year was the most strenuous in the society's history, more being accomplished than in any previous year, and under more adverse circumstances. The number of children treated was 315, which included 104 new patients. Total treatments were 5,193, far in excess of any similar period.

"Of the total number of treatments, about 4100 were part pay; that is, the society received only a portion of the actual cost," Evans stated. "Such treatments included those of patients certified under the Crippled Children's Act, and coming under other classifications. The number of charity treatments was 800, and private treatments were given in 303 instances in which the patients were able to pay the nominal charges.

"The fund raised through the sale of Easter Seals helps to finance the cost of the charity and part-pay cases."

Easter Seals — brightly colored little stickers for use on letters, cards and packages—were mailed recently to homes throughout the county. The recipients are requested to buy the Seals at the rate of a penny apiece, and remit direct to the society.

QUEENS DIE PROUDLY

©. WHITE by W. L. White W.N.U. FEATURES

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, Flying Fortress pilot, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines. Eight of his men are killed in Old 99 before the Fort could get off the ground. The step by step escape to Australia is described, and how Christmas day is spent by U. S. flyers in Australia. But Kurtz is worrying about two Forts on a mission. Radio report comes from Schaetzel saying he'd be in after dark with one body aboard and have ambulance ready. General Brereton lands on Batchelor Field and orders all bombers moved to Java at once. Kurtz reaches well camouflaged field in Java, with load of bombs. Describes social system of the Dutch.

CHAPTER VIII

"Next day we headed out over the Java Sea toward Borneo and, following instructions, found a likely looking river, dropping down to low altitude, and began following it back upcountry, and then, just on schedule, we made out Samarinda Field in the late-afternoon sunlight in spite of its camouflage. And it was the best job we'd ever seen, better than Malang. We'd had practically no time for camouflage at all in the Philippines. But here the Dutch had hewed this field out of the teeming jungle—uprooted the stumps, leveled it off, planted it with grass, and then covered it with wooden sawhorses that would knock the stuffing out of any plane that tried to land through them. Only when you circled the field, out came a crowd of natives on the run—I suppose they were wild men of Borneo the Dutch had tamed. They would remove the sawhorses only from that particular runway you were supposed to use, and the minute your wheels touched the ground they'd start recovering the runway behind you.

"Right away we went to pilots' meeting, where we lined out the mission for Davao Bay.

"The Japs, we knew, seldom flew at night, but we were flying in a V of V's. Jim Connally, George Schaetzel, and I made up the third flight, which, I might point out, is the dirty spot, because in those days you could expect most Jap attacks from the rear. Then we started that long climb for altitude—which means safety for the Fortress, a hell of a big and vulnerable target near the ground.

"But while we are still climbing, George Schaetzel is lagging. Engine trouble, we later found out. George drops out entirely, which leaves Jim Connally and me alone to handle the dirty spot.

"Presently the formation levels off, and then ahead of us we see an enormous black mass of weather in what is left of the dwindling twilight. It's laid out horizontally right across our path—starting at about 12,000 feet, it seems to go on up forever.

"So what do we do? Our orders are to keep in formation, so we can all hit Davao at the same time, and not go over dispersed at intervals, where the Zeros, rising at the first alarm, can slaughter the stragglers.

"But if we go into this cloud bank, maybe it goes on for miles and we'll lose each other inside of it, and never be able to assemble for the attack.

"The leader decides we'll try to go around it, so, turning, we fly parallel to it. But it seems endless, and after flying for forty-five minutes, we see that in this attempted detour we've wasted precious gasoline—our margin of safety to get to the target and get home is down to almost zero.

"Which means we can't go on.

"We returned to Samarinda, landed, gassed up, and then without any rest or sleep started to take off again for Davao at midnight. This time we were sure we wouldn't miss.

"Again we run into thick fog," went on Frank, "when we go up next night. My co-pilot Collvin and I fly alternately—our eyes smarting and streaming from the strain and staring through the windshield at those formation lights of the planes ahead, not daring to lose sight of them for fear we will then be lost and alone in the night. As dawn breaks I see Broadhurst's Fortress by the number on its tail. It is too late to go on into Davao, just two of us, so we turn and start mournfully back to Samarinda.

"At one o'clock in the morning we again took off on the long flight to the target—between four and five hours. For the first few hours we were lucky. The clouds were well stratified and we flew between two layers of them, so we didn't have to fly both weather and instruments.

"This time we arrive at the previously agreed point where we are to make that 120-degree turn and come directly in on Davao, and as we swing up and over for that sharp bank, I get my only glimpse of the target, which ordinarily the pilot never sees in detail. From where he sits he can only see the sky and the distant horizon ahead. It's the bombardier who can look straight down and a little ahead, who pulls the plane in over that tiny pinpoint to be attacked. But now I'm about to see it for myself—just one look when my wing is cocked high in the air.

"And then I get my only glimpse out of the tilted side window, the city still asleep, the upper Bay of Davao silver in the first dawn light, and then—oh, lovely, lovely sight!—a big boat sitting well offshore surrounded by a protecting circle of destroyers, all of them motionless, not a wisp of smoke coming from a funnel. We've caught them asleep with no steam up, the Japs are snoring—like so many Pearl Harbor brass-hats—this is what we've been waiting for!

"But now comes a change. Over my interphones I hear Stone, bombardier of the lead plane, calling to Combs, who is leading us.

" 'Do you mind if we change over, sir?' he asks. 'I see our real target now.'

"We've now roared in almost to our bomb-release line, but Combs agrees. We bank up and change over, now heading apparently for lower Davao Harbor.

"Peering out of the window on the bank, I get one glimpse of it and now understand the reason for the change—the most tremendous concentration of ships I ever saw in my life. Everything, big boys, cruisers of all sizes, transports, submarines, destroyers, gunboats, bunched in there dotting the water so thick we couldn't possibly miss—but now we're on our bomb run, and I'm steadying the plane down to go on the PDI. (Pilot's direction instrument.) To you it's just one of many wavering needles on this big instrument panel. But it's hooked up with the bomb sight in the compartment below. The bombardier has his sensitive fingers on those controls, keeping the target ahead framed in the cross hairs. Every time he moves them a fraction of an inch, the change is registered in that PDI needle on my instrument panel. I can't see the target, of course, but if I follow the needle I can't miss it.

Up came a pretty blonde Dutch nurse in a Red Cross uniform.

"Now our nerves are tightening up. I glance fleetingly ahead and see Cecil Combs in the lead plane, going over the target. Since we're bringing up the rear, Cecil is about nine miles away, and his big Fortress looks about the size of a wren. That sky ahead is filled with dirty soot-gray ack-ack puffs, making a spotty layer above him. The Japs on the ground have cut their fuses just a little too long to pick off Cecil, but I know that in a very few seconds more I'm going to get a closer view of this ack-ack. I pray Cecil's bombardier won't miss, although he's too far ahead for us to see his bombs leave. 'Damn it, Stone, now lay 'em down the alley, boy!' But that kid won't miss; he's one of the best bombardiers in the business. Now he's laying his train, Pearl Harbor style, on those Japs, who are lying there without steam up—only again I'm raging. Here we are, with a Pearl Harbor setup for a target, but only ten of us, while the Japs hit Hawaii with many scores.

"My navigator has laid aside his tools in the compartment below, and now comes crawling up through the trapdoor to squeeze back through the bomb bays, between the rows of bombs and gas tanks, into the radio compartment, where he'll man a machine gun against Jap fighters.

"There's no interphone talking now except between gunners. We've broken radio silence—the hell with it now. We see them down there and of course they see us up here. Anything we can do to bring the formation in right is okay. So now the earphones crackle with the excited cross talk of machine-gunners, all peering out their windows on the lookout for Zeros.

"I take a quick glance out of the side window to make sure I'm not ahead of Jim. I've got to stay even with him so my gunners can protect his tail and his gunners can protect mine. And I wonder how in hell that first flight has done, but don't dare look up to see if Combs has turned off the target yet. I must stay glued to that needle—my co-pilot is glued to it too, giving me the corrections on my run.

"It must be as carefully timed as a violin duet. My bombardier below there needs the gentle touch of a violinist on his controls and I must follow with equally gentle pressures on the rudder. If he gets excited, and in correcting an error, moves his controls too far, then, following that weaving needle, I'll push a pedal too far and we'll throw the Fortress out of her groove.

"I'm almost praying he won't do this. 'Come on, boy,' I mutter to him, 'don't let it run down your leg, now!—don't overcorrect!'

"Now I take the risk of just one glance away from the needle through the windshield to see the second flight just going in on its bomb-release line. The ack-ack fire, which for the first flight was too high, is now breaking below the second flight. That means they'll see they've bracketed us, and next time they make a change in fuses down below—about the time our third flight is going over—they'll have us square.

"Just then I hear a gunner shouting over the interphones:

" 'Fighters, coming up at nine o'clock!' I can't see them yet—wonder where they're coming from. Maybe off a carrier. Then why didn't we make a run on that? Maybe Cecil did, and missed. Maybe my bombardier sees it and we are making our run on it. No, I think, they're probably off the ground. The Japs have probably got the countryside around Davao laced with landing strips by this time—the enterprising little so-and-sos.

(Lay your watch down on the table in front of you. At twelve o'clock the hour hand points straight ahead. At three o'clock it points to the right. At nine o'clock it points to the left.)

"Now my own gunners are talking: 'They're coming up in a long, slow spiral, like hornets out of a nest—coming up so straight you can even see their bellies. I get the first rumble of the antiaircraft fire as the ship flutters. A quick glance ahead shows the puffs are right on our level now.

"Then I get mad again. Because it said in our schoolbooks that the Jap antiaircraft fire couldn't hit anything above 18,000. Here we are, laying it to them from almost twice that altitude, and they're putting it right back up to us.

"Then I get a feeling of exultation. Because down under us and not far ahead now is that Jap Pearl Harbor setup—big ships with stone-cold boilers. Now they must be running frantically around the engine rooms trying to stoke the fires and get steam up, knowing while they're hurrying that it's too late—just as they knew at Pearl Harbor, but all you can do is hurry, so you do it anyway. Well, we've got them where we wanted them, even if there are only ten of us—got them where they had Old 99 just about a month ago.

"Then I jump, for the ship quivers from a burst of fire from our own .50-caliber guns. Then quickly another and another. Zeros coming up, banking to come in and rake us with their fire? But when nothing is said of them over the interphones, I know my boys are only firing little bursts to warm the oil in their guns, making sure the guns won't jam when we are really hit by fighters.

"Suddenly the plane's nose lurches upward and to the left, and hardly have I straightened her out onto even keel when she tries to make another twist. It's the blast from the ack-ack fire—invisible billows of air sent out by each explosion, and now it's as rough as though we were bouncing in a Model T over a Missouri dirt road three days after a rain.

"At my side my copilot, who has been looking out through the windshield, hollers: 'Jim's bombs are on their way.' I don't dare take my eye from the needle.

"Just then I get the click from my own bombardier. Our bomb-bay doors are open now—I feel the slight drag on the plane, and with my rudder correct for it, and then that double click on the interphone which means he's telling me: 'Ship level, Frank, please.' And I don't answer except with my feet so firmly but gently on the rudders, giving him that absolutely level bombing platform he has to have if we're to hit the target.

"And at last the precious amber light glows on my instrument panel, which means he's now actually flicking the bombs off, one by one, and I keep my feet so softly on the rudders that they hardly touch, so as not to give the tiniest sidewise throw to the bombs. Up in the cockpit we hold our breath. We know down below the bombardier is flicking them off—four 600-pounders at half-second intervals.

"Then as he calls, 'Bombs away!' at that split second we quit working for the Government and begin to work for our wives and families. Because that means the last bomb has left the plane and we can now close the bomb-bay doors, and our objective is now only to get home safely.

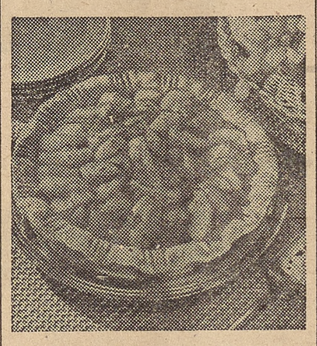
Old Favorites In Wartime Roles Please Family



Apples and cheese are old favorites in this pie. The crust is single and baked ahead of time. Only a small amount of cheese is required for topping. The pie may be served hot or cold.

What are your fondest memories of home? My guess is that it's the wonderful aroma of baking day in mother's kitchen!

Baking is fun and the results are more than gratifying. Not only do you enjoy the food immensely in the process of making, but there's great pleasure in placing a pie, muffins, coffee cake or whatever, that you yourself made, in front of the family.

Ovens should be checked frequently to assure success in baking. Follow baking temperature and time carefully: they'll help you get good results.

How about an apple pie tonight? Don't say you don't have time because this is as simple as Simon. If you have ready-made-up pastry in the refrigerator, then it will be simpler than ever to whip up this pie and surprise the family:

Apple Cheese Pie.
(Serves 6)

1 cup sugar
¾ cup water
3 to 4 tablespoons lemon juice
1 quart peeled, sliced apples
Baked 9-inch pastry shell
½ to ¾ cup grated sharp American cheese

Combine sugar, water and lemon juice in saucepan and bring to a boil. Then add sliced apples and simmer, covered, until apples are soft, stirring occasionally. Arrange apples in baked pastry shell and sprinkle grated cheese over top. Place under broiler to toast cheese topping, or serve without toasting, if desired. Serve pie warm or cold, as preferred.

Since cocoa is now obtainable in limited quantities, perhaps you might like to indulge in that favorite of cakes:

One-Egg Chocolate Cake.
1½ cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
⅔ cup sugar
2 tablespoons water
5 tablespoons semi-sweet chocolate or 4 tablespoons unsweetened cocoa
4 tablespoons shortening
1 egg
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and soda. Cook 2 tablespoons sugar, water and cocoa for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Cream shortening and remaining sugar together. Add egg; beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients. Add chocolate mixture, milk and vanilla. Bake in small layer cake tins or one square pan in a moderate (350 degree) oven 20 minutes for layer cake; 30 minutes for loaf cake. Frost with Seven Minute Icing.

Tea-Time Cake.
(One Cake 10 by 7 by 1½ Inches And 2 Small Loaves)
1½ packages fast granular yeast
¼ cup tepid water

1 teaspoon syrup or sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
3 tablespoons sugar
½ cup lukewarm peach juice
½ cup lukewarm water
1 egg, well beaten
½ cup currants or raisins
5 tablespoons melted shortening
¼ teaspoon cloves*
½ teaspoon cinnamon*
¼ teaspoon nutmeg*
4 to 5 cups sifted flour

If these spices are not at hand, use 1 teaspoon vanilla extract for flavoring.

Pour the yeast into the tepid water, add the 1 teaspoon syrup or sugar, stir and let stand 5 minutes or until yeast is thoroughly softened. Put the salt and remaining sugar in the mixing bowl and pour in the peach juice and water, mixed. Add the yeast mixture and 2 cups of the flour. Beat until smooth, then blend in the beaten egg. Stir in the washed, dried currants or raisins, which have been lightly dusted with flour, and add the melted, but not hot, shortening. Sift the spices with 2 more cups of the flour and add to batter, mixing well. At this point the dough should cling to the mixing spoon. It may be necessary to add more flour. Sprinkle ¼ cup flour on mixing board, turn the dough onto the board, cover and let rest for 10 minutes. Knead quickly and lightly until dough is smooth and satiny. Put into a lightly greased bowl, turning the dough around in the bowl until all sides are coated with fat. Cover and set to rise in a warm place until double (about 1½ hours). Sprinkle the board lightly with flour, turn the dough onto the board, and divide in halves. Cover and let rest 10 minutes.

Your family appreciates hot breads with its dinner, and these apple muffins with bran are just the thing for hearty appetites. Serve with Swiss steak and vegetables.

To make coffee cake: Pull one-half of dough into oblong shape and finish rolling with rolling pin until about the size of pan to be used for baking. Place in the greased pan. Cover and let dough double (about 1 hour). Brush top with egg white, diluted with 1 tablespoon water. Bake in a 375-degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes or until done. Cool, uncovered, on a rack.

To make 2 small loaves: Divided remaining half of dough into two parts and shape to fit small greased pans, filling them about half full. Cover and let rise until double. Brush tops with egg white. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. Cool, uncovered, on a cake rack.

Apple muffins can fill your kitchen with delightful fragrance and bring calls for encores at dinner:

Apple Muffins.
(Makes 8 medium)

2 tablespoons shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
¾ cup grated raw apple
1 cup bran
½ cup milk
1 cup flour
¾ teaspoon salt
2½ teaspoons baking powder

Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add egg and beat well. Stir in apple, bran and milk. Let soak until moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin tins ⅔ full and bake in a moderately hot (400-degree) oven about 30 minutes.

Handy Hints: Berries and fruits will keep in perfect condition for days if stored in refrigerator, spread on a platter with a piece of parchment or waxed paper covering them completely.

Strong flavored foods stored in the refrigerator should be wrapped carefully, or would you rather have your chocolate pudding taste of onion and your beefsteak of cantaloupe?

Try a dash of ginger with chocolate icings. It's delicious.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

In 1912 tropical Americas produced their greatest output of rubber—62,000 tons. It is expected that we will import 41,000 tons from these countries in 1943, an important supplement to our synthetic supplies.
Some experts estimate that there are around 300 million Hevea (rubber) trees in Latin America. Most of them are in jungles, difficult to get at.
"Alcohol and driving don't mix" may still be a worthy admonition, but nevertheless, millions of gallons of alcohol are needed as a raw material to make synthetic rubber for the production of tires now so essential to driving.

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, Flying Fortress pilot, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines. Eight of his men are killed in Old 99 before the Fort could get off the ground. The step by step escape to Australia is described, and how Christmas day is spent by U. S. flyers in Australia. But Kurtz is worrying about two Forts on a mission. Radio report comes from Schaetzel saying he'd be in after dark with one body aboard and have ambulance ready. General Brereton lands on Batchelor Field and orders all bombers moved to Java at once. Kurtz reaches well camouflaged field in Java, with load of bombs. Describes social system of the Dutch.

CHAPTER VIII

"Next day we headed out over the Java Sea toward Borneo and, following instructions, found a likely looking river, dropping down to low altitude, and began following it back upcountry, and then, just on schedule, we made out Samarinda Field in the late-afternoon sunlight in spite of its camouflage. And it was the best job we'd ever seen, better than Malang. We'd had practically no time for camouflage at all in the Philippines. But here the Dutch had hewed this field out of the teeming jungle—uprooted the stumps, leveled it off, planted it with grass, and then covered it with wooden sawhorses that would knock the stuffing out of any plane that tried to land through them. Only when you circled the field, out came a crowd of natives on the run—I suppose they were wild men of Borneo the Dutch had tamed. They would remove the sawhorses only from that particular runway you were supposed to use, and the minute your wheels touched the ground they'd start recovering the runway behind you.

"Right away we went to pilots' meeting, where we lined out the mission for Davao Bay.

"The Japs, we knew, seldom flew at night, but we were flying in a V of V's. Jim Connally, George Schaetzel, and I made up the third flight, which, I might point out, is the dirty spot, because in those days you could expect most Jap attacks from the rear. Then we started that long climb for altitude—which means safety for the Fortress, a hell of a big and vulnerable target near the ground.

"But while we are still climbing, George Schaetzel is lagging. Engine trouble, we later found out. George drops out entirely, which leaves Jim Connally and me alone to handle the dirty spot.

"Presently the formation levels off, and then ahead of us we see an enormous black mass of weather in what is left of the dwindling twilight. It's laid out horizontally right across our path—starting at about 12,000 feet, it seems to go on up forever.

"So what do we do? Our orders are to keep in formation, so we can all hit Davao at the same time, and not go over dispersed at intervals, where the Zeros, rising at the first alarm, can slaughter the stragglers.

"But if we go into this cloud bank, maybe it goes on for miles and we'll lose each other inside of it, and never be able to assemble for the attack.

"The leader decides we'll try to go around it, so, turning, we fly parallel to it. But it seems endless, and after flying for forty-five minutes, we see that in this attempted detour we've wasted precious gasoline—our margin of safety to get to the target and get home is down to almost zero.

"Which means we can't go on.

"We returned to Samarinda, landed, gassed up, and then without any rest or sleep started to take off again for Davao at midnight. This time we were sure we wouldn't miss.

"Again we run into thick fog," went on Frank, "when we go up next night. My co-pilot Collvin and I fly alternately—our eyes smarting and streaming from the strain and staring through the windshield at those formation lights of the planes ahead, not daring to lose sight of them for fear we will then be lost and alone in the night. As dawn breaks I see Broadhurst's Fortress by the number on its tail. It is too late to go on into Davao, just two of us, so we turn and start mournfully back to Samarinda.

"At one o'clock in the morning we again took off on the long flight to the target—between four and five hours. For the first few hours we were lucky. The clouds were well stratified and we flew between two layers of them, so we didn't have to fly both weather and instruments.

"This time we arrive at the previously agreed point where we are to make that 120-degree turn and come directly in on Davao, and as we swing up and over for that sharp bank, I get my only glimpse of the target, which ordinarily the pilot never sees in detail. From where he sits he can only see the sky and the distant horizon ahead. It's the bombardier who can look straight down and a little ahead, who pulls the plane in over that tiny pinpoint to be attacked. But now I'm about to see it for myself—just one look when my wing is cocked high in the air.

"And then I get my only glimpse out of the tilted side window, the city still asleep, the upper Bay of Davao silver in the first dawn light, and then—oh, lovely, lovely sight!—a big boat sitting well offshore surrounded by a protecting circle of destroyers, all of them motionless, not a wisp of smoke coming from a funnel. We've caught them asleep with no steam up, the Japs are snoring—like so many Pearl Harbor brass-hats—this is what we've been waiting for!

"But now comes a change. Over my interphones I hear Stone, bombardier of the lead plane, calling to Combs, who is leading us.

" 'Do you mind if we change over, sir?' he asks. 'I see our real target now.'

"We've now roared in almost to our bomb-release line, but Combs agrees. We bank up and change over, now heading apparently for lower Davao Harbor.

"Peering out of the window on the bank, I get one glimpse of it and now understand the reason for the change—the most tremendous concentration of ships I ever saw in my life. Everything, big boys, cruisers of all sizes, transports, submarines, destroyers, gunboats, bunched in there dotting the water so thick we couldn't possibly miss—but now we're on our bomb run, and I'm steadying the plane down to go on the PDI. (Pilot's direction instrument.) To you it's just one of many wavering needles on this big instrument panel. But it's hooked up with the bomb sight in the compartment below. The bombardier has his sensitive fingers on those controls, keeping the target ahead framed in the cross hairs. Every time he moves them a fraction of an inch, the change is registered in that PDI needle on my instrument panel. I can't see the target, of course, but if I follow the needle I can't miss it.

Up came a pretty blonde Dutch nurse in a Red Cross uniform.

"Now our nerves are tightening up. I glance fleetingly ahead and see Cecil Combs in the lead plane, going over the target. Since we're bringing up the rear, Cecil is about nine miles away, and his big Fortress looks about the size of a wren. That sky ahead is filled with dirty soot-gray ack-ack puffs, making a spotty layer above him. The Japs on the ground have cut their fuses just a little too long to pick off Cecil, but I know that in a very few seconds more I'm going to get a closer view of this ack-ack. I pray Cecil's bombardier won't miss, although he's too far ahead for us to see his bombs leave. 'Damn it, Stone, now lay 'em down the alley, boy!' But that kid won't miss; he's one of the best bombardiers in the business. Now he's laying his train, Pearl Harbor style, on those Japs, who are lying there without steam up—only again I'm raging. Here we are, with a Pearl Harbor setup for a target, but only ten of us, while the Japs hit Hawaii with many scores.

"My navigator has laid aside his tools in the compartment below, and now comes crawling up through the trapdoor to squeeze back through the bomb bays, between the rows of bombs and gas tanks, into the radio compartment, where he'll man a machine gun against Jap fighters.

"There's no interphone talking now except between gunners. We've broken radio silence—the hell with it now. We see them down there and of course they see us up here. Anything we can do to bring the formation in right is okay. So now the earphones crackle with the excited cross talk of machine-gunners, all peering out their windows on the lookout for Zeros.

"I take a quick glance out of the side window to make sure I'm not ahead of Jim. I've got to stay even with him so my gunners can protect his tail and his gunners can protect mine. And I wonder how in hell that first flight has done, but don't dare look up to see if Combs has turned off the target yet. I must stay glued to that needle—my co-pilot is glued to it too, giving me the corrections on my run.

"It must be as carefully timed as a violin duet. My bombardier below there needs the gentle touch of a violinist on his controls and I must follow with equally gentle pressures on the rudder. If he gets excited, and in correcting an error, moves his controls too far, then, following that weaving needle, I'll push a pedal too far and we'll throw the Fortress out of her groove.

"I'm almost praying he won't do this. 'Come on, boy,' I mutter to him, 'don't let it run down your leg, now!—don't overcorrect!'

"Now I take the risk of just one glance away from the needle through the windshield to see the second flight just going in on its bomb-release line. The ack-ack fire, which for the first flight was too high, is now breaking below the second flight. That means they'll see they've bracketed us, and next time they make a change in fuses down below—about the time our third flight is going over—they'll have us square.

"Just then I hear a gunner shouting over the interphones:

" 'Fighters, coming up at nine o'clock!' I can't see them yet—wonder where they're coming from. Maybe off a carrier. Then why didn't we make a run on that? Maybe Cecil did, and missed. Maybe my bombardier sees it and we are making our run on it. No, I think, they're probably off the ground. The Japs have probably got the countryside around Davao laced with landing strips by this time—the enterprising little so-and-sos.

(Lay your watch down on the table in front of you. At twelve o'clock the hour hand points straight ahead. At three o'clock it points to the right. At nine o'clock it points to the left.)

"Now my own gunners are talking: 'They're coming up in a long, slow spiral, like hornets out of a nest—coming up so straight you can even see their bellies. I get the first rumble of the antiaircraft fire as the ship flutters. A quick glance ahead shows the puffs are right on our level now.

"Then I get mad again. Because it said in our schoolbooks that the Jap antiaircraft fire couldn't hit anything above 18,000. Here we are, laying it to them from almost twice that altitude, and they're putting it right back up to us.

"Then I get a feeling of exultation. Because down under us and not far ahead now is that Jap Pearl Harbor setup—big ships with stone-cold boilers. Now they must be running frantically around the engine rooms trying to stoke the fires and get steam up, knowing while they're hurrying that it's too late—just as they knew at Pearl Harbor, but all you can do is hurry, so you do it anyway. Well, we've got them where we wanted them, even if there are only ten of us—got them where they had Old 99 just about a month ago.

"Then I jump, for the ship quivers from a burst of fire from our own .50-caliber guns. Then quickly another and another. Zeros coming up, banking to come in and rake us with their fire? But when nothing is said of them over the interphones, I know my boys are only firing little bursts to warm the oil in their guns, making sure the guns won't jam when we are really hit by fighters.

"Suddenly the plane's nose lurches upward and to the left, and hardly have I straightened her out onto even keel when she tries to make another twist. It's the blast from the ack-ack fire—invisible billows of air sent out by each explosion, and now it's as rough as though we were bouncing in a Model T over a Missouri dirt road three days after a rain.

"At my side my copilot, who has been looking out through the windshield, hollers: 'Jim's bombs are on their way.' I don't dare take my eye from the needle.

"Just then I get the click from my own bombardier. Our bomb-bay doors are open now—I feel the slight drag on the plane, and with my rudder correct for it, and then that double click on the interphone which means he's telling me: 'Ship level, Frank, please.' And I don't answer except with my feet so firmly but gently on the rudders, giving him that absolutely level bombing platform he has to have if we're to hit the target.

"And at last the precious amber light glows on my instrument panel, which means he's now actually flicking the bombs off, one by one, and I keep my feet so softly on the rudders that they hardly touch, so as not to give the tiniest sidewise throw to the bombs. Up in the cockpit we hold our breath. We know down below the bombardier is flicking them off—four 600-pounders at half-second intervals.

"Then as he calls, 'Bombs away!' at that split second we quit working for the Government and begin to work for our wives and families. Because that means the last bomb has left the plane and we can now close the bomb-bay doors, and our objective is now only to get home safely.

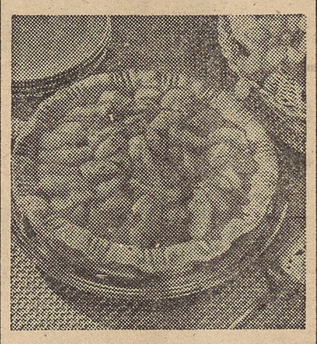
Old Favorites In Wartime Roles Please Family



Apples and cheese are old favorites in this pie. The crust is single and baked ahead of time. Only a small amount of cheese is required for topping. The pie may be served hot or cold.

What are your fondest memories of home? My guess is that it's the wonderful aroma of baking day in mother's kitchen!

Baking is fun and the results are more than gratifying. Not only do you enjoy the food immensely in the process of making, but there's great pleasure in placing a pie, muffins, coffee cake or whatever, that you yourself made, in front of the family.

Ovens should be checked frequently to assure success in baking. Follow baking temperature and time carefully: they'll help you get good results.

How about an apple pie tonight? Don't say you don't have time because this is as simple as Simon. If you have ready-made-up pastry in the refrigerator, then it will be simpler than ever to whip up this pie and surprise the family:

Apple Cheese Pie.
(Serves 6)

1 cup sugar
¾ cup water
3 to 4 tablespoons lemon juice
1 quart peeled, sliced apples
Baked 9-inch pastry shell
½ to ¾ cup grated sharp American cheese

Combine sugar, water and lemon juice in saucepan and bring to a boil. Then add sliced apples and simmer, covered, until apples are soft, stirring occasionally. Arrange apples in baked pastry shell and sprinkle grated cheese over top. Place under broiler to toast cheese topping, or serve without toasting, if desired. Serve pie warm or cold, as preferred.

Since cocoa is now obtainable in limited quantities, perhaps you might like to indulge in that favorite of cakes:

One-Egg Chocolate Cake.
1½ cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
⅔ cup sugar
2 tablespoons water
5 tablespoons semi-sweet chocolate or 4 tablespoons unsweetened cocoa
4 tablespoons shortening
1 egg
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and soda. Cook 2 tablespoons sugar, water and cocoa for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Cream shortening and remaining sugar together. Add egg; beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients. Add chocolate mixture, milk and vanilla. Bake in small layer cake tins or one square pan in a moderate (350 degree) oven 20 minutes for layer cake; 30 minutes for loaf cake. Frost with Seven Minute Icing.

1½ packages fast granular yeast
¼ cup tepid water

Lynn Says

Handy Hints: Berries and fruits will keep in perfect condition for days if stored in refrigerator, spread on a platter with a piece of parchment or waxed paper covering them completely.

Strong flavored foods stored in the refrigerator should be wrapped carefully, or would you rather have your chocolate pudding taste of onion and your beefsteak of cantaloupe?

Try a dash of ginger with chocolate icings. It's delicious.

When you don't use all your pimiento from a can, place it in a glass jar, and cover with paraffin.

*Recipe Given

1 teaspoon syrup or sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
3 tablespoons sugar
½ cup lukewarm peach juice
½ cup lukewarm water
1 egg, well beaten
½ cup currants or raisins
5 tablespoons melted shortening
¼ teaspoon cloves*
½ teaspoon cinnamon*
¼ teaspoon nutmeg*
4 to 5 cups sifted flour

If these spices are not at hand, use 1 teaspoon vanilla extract for flavoring.

Pour the yeast into the tepid water, add the 1 teaspoon syrup or sugar, stir and let stand 5 minutes or until yeast is thoroughly softened. Put the salt and remaining sugar in the mixing bowl and pour in the peach juice and water, mixed. Add the yeast mixture and 2 cups of the flour. Beat until smooth, then blend in the beaten egg. Stir in the washed, dried currants or raisins, which have been lightly dusted with flour, and add the melted, but not hot, shortening. Sift the spices with 2 more cups of the flour and add to batter, mixing well. At this point the dough should cling to the mixing spoon. It may be necessary to add more flour. Sprinkle ¼ cup flour on mixing board, turn the dough onto the board, cover and let rest for 10 minutes. Knead quickly and lightly until dough is smooth and satiny. Put into a lightly greased bowl, turning the dough around in the bowl until all sides are coated with fat. Cover and set to rise in a warm place until double (about 1½ hours). Sprinkle the board lightly with flour, turn the dough onto the board, and divide in halves. Cover and let rest 10 minutes.

Your family appreciates hot breads with its dinner, and these apple muffins with bran are just the thing for hearty appetites. Serve with Swiss steak and vegetables.

To make coffee cake: Pull one-half of dough into oblong shape and finish rolling with rolling pin until about the size of pan to be used for baking. Place in the greased pan. Cover and let dough double (about 1 hour). Brush top with egg white, diluted with 1 tablespoon water. Bake in a 375-degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes or until done. Cool, uncovered, on a rack.

To make 2 small loaves: Divided remaining half of dough into two parts and shape to fit small greased pans, filling them about half full. Cover and let rise until double. Brush tops with egg white. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. Cool, uncovered, on a cake rack.

Apple muffins can fill your kitchen with delightful fragrance and bring calls for encores at dinner:

Apple Muffins.
(Makes 8 medium)
2 tablespoons shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
¾ cup grated raw apple
1 cup bran
½ cup milk
1 cup flour
¾ teaspoon salt
2½ teaspoons baking powder

Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add egg and beat well. Stir in apple, bran and milk. Let soak until moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin tins ⅔ full and bake in a moderately hot (400-degree) oven about 30 minutes.

12¢ WORTH OF (PER ACRE) NITRAGIN INOCULATION MADE THIS DIFFERENCE IN Soybeans

It cost only 12¢ an acre and took only a few minutes to make the difference in the test plots shown above. Inoculation of seed with NITRAGIN not only boosts yields of soybeans, alfalfa, clovers and other legumes, it also increases protein content, and helps build soil fertility—adding as much as 50 to 150 lbs. of nitrogen to the acre. It pays to inoculate every planting of soybeans, and other legumes regardless of previous cropping. NITRAGIN is the most widely used inoculant. Get it from your seedsman . . . in the yellow can.

. . . Look for the name NITRAGIN when you buy.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

In 1912 tropical Americas produced their greatest output of rubber—62,000 tons. It is expected that we will import 41,000 tons from these countries in 1943, an important supplement to our synthetic supplies.

Some experts estimate that there are around 300 million Hevea (rubber) trees in Latin America. Most of them are in jungles, difficult to get at.

"Alcohol and driving don't mix" may still be a worthy admonition, but nevertheless, millions of gallons of alcohol are needed as a raw material to make synthetic rubber for the production of tires now so essential to driving.

Kiwani Annes To Meet

Kiwani Annes of Ocean Beach will gather in the home of Mrs. W. B. Oster, 4879 Voltaire st., for the usual monthly business meeting, Tuesday evening, March 21.

Mrs. John Wilhoit, Mrs. Alfred Sand and Mrs. Myron Insko will assist Mrs. Oster in serving the buffet supper at 6:30.

Mrs. Henry Holman, president, will preside.

Eastern Star Notes

Pt. Loma chapter O.E.S., will meet in regular form Monday, March 20, in the Masonic hall. Fern Herbst, worthy matron, and Leroy Lee, worthy patron, will preside in the east.

This will be "men's night" and Bud Kidwell will be chairman of the after-chapter party. All O. E. S. members are welcome.

Walter Clarke of Napa, Calif., is spending a week or 10 days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Clarke, 4761 Niagara ave. Walter is greatly enjoying renewing old friendships.

Ocean Beach U.S.O.

Plans have been completed at the Ocean Beach U.S.O. for the St. Patrick's day informal dance to be held Saturday evening, March 18th. One of the features the talent show will be especially entertaining, and all service men are invited to come and join in the fun.

The first of the series of bingo games held last Wednesday evening brought a record crowd, a great majority participating in the games. Other amusements are being planned for each evening. When baking, do not forget to send in cookies, cakes and doughnuts and help do your bit to entertain our boys.

GAY PARTY TONIGHT

There'll be the wearin' of the green Friday night at the Y. W. C. A. when the St. Patrick's party starts at 7:30. Dancing will begin at 8:30 and formal dress for girls will be proper.

Civilians and service people are all invited to the party, and there will be no admission charge. Decorative effects will be carried out in the traditional St. Patrick's color, and refreshments will be served. An orchestra will play for dancing, and card games will be provided for those not wishing to dance.

Golden Wedding Anniversary

At morning service last Sunday in the Baptist church, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Woodworth, 1675 Bacon st., received felicitations from the congregation and beautiful flowers, sent by their daughters, Mrs. Chas. O. Woodworth, of Denver, Colo., and Mrs. K. O. White, of Atlanta, Ga.

The occasion marked the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Woodworth who have resided in Ocean Beach the past 19 years.

Letters were read from children and grandchildren. A telegram from their son-in-law, Dr. Talbot, president of the Los Angeles Bible institute, was read by De Witt Fields.

Archie Lock presented a beautiful vase with flowers to Mr. and Mrs. Woodworth from the church. Wallace Brewer presented a lovely gift vase to the church on behalf of Dr. and Mrs. K. O. White and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. O. Woodworth.

Rev. Jenson spoke on these words: "The hoary-head is a crown of glory if found in the way of righteousness." Special music was given by the harmony trio.

The church and congregation wished them many years of companionship. Their many friends in Ocean Beach extend sincere congratulations, and so would a great number of boys, now in the service, who by the teaching and wonderful counsel of Mr. Woodworth are now giving their very best in the great conflict of war.

FOURTH BIRTHDAY OBSERVED

Lynne Van Gessel, dainty blonde daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Van Gessel, 4728 Narragansett, held the spotlight at a gay birthday party, Monday, March 13, when she was four years old.

A lovely birthday cake, candle-lighted and decorated in yellow and green, was shared by the following little friends: Dean and Ronny Craft, Tommy Bartholomew, Johnny Tompkins, Billy Fadden, Diane and Leigh Keswick, Leonard Reeves, Allen and Carol Ann Pollock, Alan Bish, Grant Brennen, Nancy McClellan, Stefnia Hancock, Maureen O'Brien, Michael St. Clair and Lynne's little brother, Lyle.

Mrs. Mary Robinson, mother of Mrs. J. A. Gilbert, sustained a sprained foot Tuesday and was taken to Quintard hospital for treatment.

BERTHA K. LEADBEATER
Bayview 6101

This past week end the Army-Navy War Show "San Diego Attacks" held at Balboa stadium was a tribute to the citizens of San Diego for the outstanding war production so far, and its main theme was, "Stay on the Job to Finish the Job"—that can also be applied to the block plan leaders—to "Stay on the Job to Finish the Job."

Many of our block plan leaders have been on the job for quite a while and are in line for their 'service pin.' Will you please turn in the number of hours accumulated between Jan., 1942 to Aug., 1943 in order that those deserving pins may receive them.

In answer to the plea for more laprobes, slippers, etc., for the Naval hospital, a number have finished and turned in, but we are looking for many more to be made.

Again, may we bring to your attention our present drive to get Easter cards for the hospitalized boys. These cards must be turned in in time to be of use to these boys.

As ever, we are collecting books, ash trays, junk jewelry and glasses, get in whatever you have, every litle bit helps.

All of the above articles can be brought either to Mrs. Miller, at 4645 Saratoga, or Mrs. Leadbeater, at 4548 Bermuda, who will see that our district gets the credit for the work done.

Film and Speaker On Club Program

Miss Jean Rittenhouse presented the Ocean Beach Women's club with a deed to the lots on the corner of Bacon and Muir sts., where the building recently purchased by the local club from the Board of Education will be moved and will give the local club the opportunity to complete plans for carrying out the building program which has been the wish of its members for many years. Miss Kate Spani, president, accepted the gift in the name of the club and appointed Mrs. C. H. Wooley, Mrs. C. W. Early and Miss Rittenhouse as a committee to work out the many details in having the building moved and remodeled.

Larry T. Cassada, field director, American Red Cross, Naval Air station was guest speaker on the day's program and gave an interesting outline of the life-saving work carried out by the Red Cross on the battle front as well as the many helpful duties performed by a field director. The speaker showed a film, "At His Side," a release compiled by the March of Time. Mr. Cassada was introduced by Mrs. Early who announced the program was in observance of the Tenth California Conservation week.

The nominating committee submitted the following slate to be voted upon in April: Mrs. C. W. Early, president; Mrs. Paul Hendrickson, first vice president; Mrs. Glen Jones, second vice-president; Miss Kate Spani, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ella Smith, recording secretary; Mrs. C. A. Baker, treasurer; Mrs. C. W. Varney, historian; Mrs. Frank Barks, auditor; and Mrs. Julia McGarvey, parliamentarian

The social hour was in charge of Mrs. C. A. Baker, Mrs. Paul Hendrickson and Miss Rittenhouse, with an attractive tea table and refreshments in the gay St. Patrick's motif. The meeting was the regular monthly session of the group held in the temporary clubhouse, 1959 Abbott st. Mrs. B. H. Nielsen, popular in Women's club activities of Green Bay, Wis., and Mrs. G. E. Paulin, formerly of Chicago, were welcomed into the membership of the club.

Richleys Announce Daughter's Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Tom J. Richley, 4972 Niagara ave., announce the marriage of their only daughter, Mary Mercille, to First Lt. Richard W. Howes, A. A. F., U. S. army, March 7 in Midland, Tex.

The former Miss Richley held a secretarial position in the offices of Trust & Savings bank. In January, Lt. Howes returned here from 50 missions in Algiers, later leaving for Texas. The bride and groom departed for Denver, Colo., soon after their wedding day, where they are now residing at 1065 South Columbine st. His new assignment brought him back to his home town and near his mother, Mrs. Frances Howes.

Bingo Party Tonight

The Holy Name and Altar societies will give a bingo party in Parish hall, 2001 Sunset Cliffs blvd., Friday, March 17 at 8 p.m. Cash awards for bingo games, a hope chest and hand-made quilt will be given away. A door prize of a $25 war bond.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Harrison of San Francisco are visiting Mr. Harrison's mother, Mrs. Bessie Harrison, 4824 Coronado, for a few days.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Philip S. Decker jr., are living at 113 Potowomat rd., East Greenwich, R. I.

Pictures of Aleutians In "Life" Magazine

Several interesting pictures of the Aleutian Island, Attu, Adak, Segula Island and also Dutch harbor are shown in "Life," March 13. The remarkable work of army engineers, a fake tree and a quonsett hut papered with pin-up girls. On a double-page spread will be found a colored photo of Adak.

Mrs. Rankin Passes Away at Home

Mrs. Emma Rankin, 68, passed away Wednesday, in her home at 4651 W. Pt. Loma blvd., following a short illness. She was born in Red Oak, Ia., and came here 34 years ago, to benefit her daughter's health.

Mrs. Rankin, her husband, John W., who preceded her in death last November, and their daughter, Margaret, resided on Voltaire st., for a year before building a fine home on W. Pt. Loma blvd.

For 10 years Mrs. Rankin was one of the few women representatives for Gerlach-Barklow art calendars. She was a charter member of the Baptist church and Ocean Beach Women's club. Gardens and choice flowers were her hobby and every year large beautiful dahlias and roses were admired by friends visiting her gardens.

Mrs. Rankin is survived by her daughter, Miss Margaret Rankin, Ocean Beach branch librarian. Private services will be held this afternoon at 2 in the Merkley-Austin mortuary by the Rev. P. O. Jenson. Entombment in Greenwood mausoleum will follow.

The O. J. Stahlschmidt family of 4570 Saratoga ave. recently left for New Orleans, La., and have arrived safely there. They will have the Ocean Beach News forwarded weekly to keep them posted on their many friends here.
